Five Star Products, Inc. Announces New Eastern Engineering Specialist Position

Shelton, CT, August 2017 – Five Star Products, Inc. is pleased to announce that Paul Babin has assumed the role of Engineering Specialist. In this new position, Paul will work with sales personnel to identify and help close sales opportunities, function in key markets in the eastern region and on key engineering projects in key facilities. His responsibilities also involve working with the top national and regional engineering firms in writing specifications. Paul will also assist in the development of new products. He will report to the Eastern Regional Manager, Claudio Petruccelli.

Prior to this position with Five Star Products he served as a National Sales Engineer with Protective Industrial Polymers where he worked with key accounts and assisted in the implementation of a corporate CRM system. His career also includes Blome International, as National Sales Engineer, and Akzo Nobel as an Engineering Sales Representative.

“Paul brings a wealth of industry experience and specific knowledge to our team. In his new role, he will work with our fast-paced sales and engineering professionals in the eastern region. His background will also effectively support our nuclear and engineering markets. We are confident in his ability to support the efforts of our people across the board,” said Steven Lupien, VP Sales and Engineering.

Paul is a graduate of the Hartford State Technical College with an AS Civil Engineering, Structural Engineering concentration, as well as a Biology Major/Chemistry at Central Connecticut State University. He has also completed a range of specialized industry certifications.
